This is Lucky Hit Devakiz Tatlim (TATLIM). He is a year and a half old and is in the pasture where my goats are having their kids. Without guidance, he sits 10 or 15 feet away while the goat is birthing. He doesn't interfere with the goat or her kids and doesn't allow other animals to come up and bother her. After she moves a short distance away from the birthing area, Tatlim gets up and cleans up the birthing fluids and after birth. This is a genetic trait that cannot be taught and must be bred for. Without Livestock, you have no idea if your dog has this ability or not. That is why when breeding Anatolians, breeding for working ability is so vital. The only way to understand the true working ability of the dog is to raise them with Livestock in a predator rich environment. Anything else is just guessing.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Natalie Thurman, President@ASDCA.club

Thank you for your patience with us as we managed some major delays with our beloved Club magazine! I appreciate everyone for understanding that sometimes, things just don't go as we planned them, and we have to roll with the punches life throws at us. The Board has taken up the mantle of The Anatolian Times until other members volunteer to assist with the gathering, compiling, layout, and editing processes. If you have experience with graphic design, magazine or catalog publishing, or editorial work, please reach out to us! We'd love to have you on board.

Moving forward, we will make some adjustments to the Times' timeline. Rest assured, all three volumes will be published and sent out in 2026! In the printed edition on the opposite side of this 2026 Volume I, you will notice that the 2025 Volume III is attached. It will be attached as a separate PDF file in email deliveries. We apologize for the tardiness of this edition, and we are all working to keep the Anatolian Times on track moving forward.

In Volume I, you'll find many wonderful photos from our 2025 National Specialty Show in West Friendship, Maryland. I want to give a special thanks to our show chair, Catherine Emanuel, who did an incredible amount of work to make that show beautiful, fun, and inclusive! I certainly had a great time seeing everyone at the shows and Club functions. Thank you to EJ and Emily Collins, Ann and CC Collins, and Liz Emanuel for your dedicated work to make the show so successful. I appreciate you all!

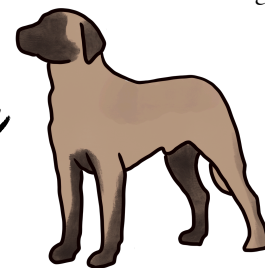

2025 was a great year for the ASDCA and our great breed! As we look forward to 2026, I want to highlight the diversity of the Anatolian Shepherd Dog. On this page you'll see my "Hercules" who recently finished his AKC Championship title in a few weekends. However, while he is capable of running in circles, where he really shines is with his livestock. Our breed is full of dogs who can thrive both on a working farm and in a performance event. Let's not forget that our dogs shouldn't be placed in a box too small for their spirit.

I encourage you to get out there with your Anatolian and learn something new together in 2026. Please let me know what you found works for you and your dog this year by emailing President@asdca.club I look forward to hearing from you!

Natalie

SUPPORTED ENTRY

Bahia Sur Kennel Club, June 2025

The Anatolian Shepherd Dog Club of America Supported Entry with the Bahia Sur Kennel Club was held once again at Bates Nut Farm in Valley Center, California. This club has been a long-time supporter of our breed, even dating back to the years before Anatolian Shepherd Dogs were recognized by the AKC, and we always appreciate the opportunity to gather for this enjoyable summer weekend show.

As in previous years, our Supported Entry drew a nice turnout of Anatolians competing for the Anatolian-themed prizes one day and Turkish-themed prizes on the other. The relaxed outdoor setting at Bates Nut Farm continues to make this event a favorite among exhibitors, and it provides a wonderful opportunity for friends in the breed to spend time together.

Judging our Supported Entry on Saturday June 14th was Canadian Judge Laurel Deptuch. Best of Breed was awarded to GCHG Karaboudjan's Mr. Bali Hai "Fezzik" bred by Janet Dotson, owned by Molly Akin & Allan Childers, and handled by Larry Fenner. Best Opposite Sex was awarded to GCH Karaboudjan's Shimmery Luster Dust "Dusty" bred by Janet Dotson, owned by Rachel Amov, and handled by Tara Schultz. Additional class and Select placements were awarded to CH Karaboudjan's La Boheme at Fiddler's Dream (Sel), CH Karaboudjan's Janissary Yatagan (Sel), Birinci's Heavenly Hope of Jubilee (WB/BOW), and LaBrosa's Keys to Heaven (WD).

We held a Veteran Sweepstakes, judged by Ms. Angela Stevanus. GCH Rosin the Bow at Cougar Ridge "Rosin" was awarded Best Veteran and Karaboudjan's Lady of the Lake Excalibur "Marian" was awarded OS.

On Sunday, the breed was judged by Canadian Judge Tempest Deptuch (Laurel's sister), with Fezzik winning Best of Breed/G4, while OS was awarded to GCH Olivera's Willow at Crestline "Willow". Additional class and Select placements were awarded to GCH Karaboudjan's Shimmery Luster Dust (Sel), CH LaBrosa's Full-bodied Bordeaux (Sel), Apex A.J. Goddess Calypso (WB), and Mythos Buzzin' Around (WD/BOW).

As always, Bahia Sur also offered Beginner Puppy competition during the weekend, providing an opportunity for our youngest Anatolians to gain early ring experience.

Beyond the competition in the ring, one of the highlights of the weekend is always the chance for Anatolian friends and newcomers or those interested in learning about the breed to gather together. Exhibitors once again enjoyed a potluck gathering, sharing good food and conversation after a day at the show.

A sincere thank you to everyone who attended and helped make the weekend such an enjoyable event. We always appreciate the support of the Bahia Sur Kennel Club and look forward to returning to Bates Nut Farm again next year.

Rachel Amov and Janet Dotson

2025 NATIONAL SPECIALTY SHOW

Meet Your Judges

National Specialty Judge, Denise Dean

My name is Denise Dean, and I have been involved in dogs since 1975, when I got my first Old English Sheepdog.

I have been active in the dog world since that time. I am a breeder and handler of several breeds, Old English Sheepdogs, Portuguese Water Dogs, Bernese Mountain Dogs, and now Berger Picards. I have finished over 150 champions, all owner-handled, in these breeds. I am currently approved to judge the Herding Group, Working Group, Non-Sporting Group and Toy Group.

A dog Groomer by trade since 1970, I enjoy all breeds and love to find a great one in each. I feel that all judges should impart a positive and helpful attitude in the ring. One of the biggest thrills in Judging is finding a truly great dog and being able to reward it, no matter who is at the end of the lead.

Thanks, Denise Dean

My Journey with Working Dogs - Wendy Sorrell

Early Influences

My mother, Marge (Nunes) Bennett, was known as a Dog Woman and profoundly shaped my relationship with purebred dogs, particularly those within the Working breeds. She was my first and most influential mentor in the world of purebred dogs. From childhood, I remember her Boxer, Robbie, as the first dog in our family. After Robbie, Mom embarked on her journey with German Shepherd Dogs in the early 1960s. By 1964, at age ten, I stepped into my first AKC ring at a German Shepherd specialty.

Expanding Horizons

As years passed, my mother added Pembroke Welsh Corgis to her kennel. As a young adult, newly married and raising two sons, I traveled the show circuits of the Pacific Northwest, frequently finishing Pembrokes alongside my mother. This was before the Working Group was divided to create the Herding Group.

Discovering Akitas

My introduction to Akitas came in 1978 at a fun match in Eugene, Oregon. I was immediately captivated by their dignity and grace and knew the breed would become a lifelong passion. Since then, I have devoted myself to the protection and preservation of Akitas under the "Subarashii" prefix.

Judging and Philosophy

In 2008, I became an approved AKC judge for Akitas and Junior Showmanship – All Breeds. My enduring love for the Conformation ring began as an exhibitor, but judging Working breeds has elevated my commitment to the sport. My focus remains with Working breeds due to their intelligence and "thinkability." These dogs must possess soundness of mind and body to perform their tasks, making temperament, structure, and balance essential priorities that define breed type.

Life Today

Together with my husband, Mark, our three adult Akitas, and two Tibetan Spaniels, we reside in beautiful East Tennessee.

Conclusion

Thank you for inviting me to judge at your National Specialty events for 2025. It is an honor and an experience I value deeply, both as a learning opportunity and a celebration of the breeds I cherish.

THE NATIONAL SPECIALTY SHOW

Letter from the Show Chair - Katie Emanuel

The 2025 ASDCA National Specialty and Supported Entries were held in West Friendship, MD at the Howard County Fairgrounds on October 10, 11 and 12. The site was selected for several reasons. While we had looked into Doswell, VA as a site, there were not as many hotel selections and no one could beat how accommodating the Catonsville Kennel Club and the National Capital Kennel Club were to our needs. We had owners come from as far away as California and dogs come from New Hampshire, Florida, Virginia and California. While during peak foliage, tourism this time of year was significantly reduced because of the government shutdown, but the shutdown didn't appear to impact our entries.

The first show of the weekend was the Catonsville Kennel Club/ASDCA Supported Entry. This allowed us to warm-up and get ready for the Specialty. Mrs. Sherry C. Webster from TN judged us first thing in the morning. She was super excited to have a large entry. There were 28 dogs entered (5 dogs, 12 bitches, 7 special dogs, 4 special bitches). Liz Emanuel and our Club President, Natalie Thurman helped man the trophy table so that the steward was able to keep things moving smoothly and it did. Winners Dog was awarded to the American-Bred Dog, Chevaliers Du Roland's Wouldn't It Be Nice. The Winners Bitch and Best of Winners came from the Open Bitch class. It was awarded to Stonecoat Loyal Truth. Best of Breed was awarded to GC CH Chevaliers Du Roland's Rikki-Tikki-Tavi. Best of Opposite was awarded to CH Chevaliers Du Roland's Just So Stories. Best Owner-Handled was awarded to CH Birinci's Ratatouille Piece de Resistance, handled by Nancy Stasyshyn. (A complete list of the winners can be found on pg 12-13).

Following our "warm-up" show, the trophy table got a make-over for the National Specialty. The ribbons were bigger, the trophies were better and the decorations made it picture perfect. There was also a cake featuring our Specialty Logo offered to all present to help get us all in the mood for the "big show," where Liz and Natalie teamed up to help keep things moving smoothly. The ASDCA Perpetual Trophies were also of full display.

First, we held the Puppy and Veteran Sweepstakes judged by Mrs. Wendy Sorrell. Mrs. Sorrell also came from TN. There 5 puppies to compete for Best Puppy (1-4). Best Puppy in Sweepstakes was awarded to Birinci's Vegetation Evaluator (EVE) with Best Opposite in Puppy Sweepstakes being awarded to Karaboudjan's Lord Peter Wimsey at Chevaliers. The next piece of the Specialty as the Veteran Sweepstakes, which is a real feature event. There were 6 (1-5) veterans entered, with 4 being over 9 years old. For spectators, seeing the older dogs still performing shows that the health status of our breed is still holding strong. Best Veteran in Specialty Sweepstakes was awarded to GCHB CH Chevaliers du Roland's Strudel. Best Opposite in Specialty Sweepstakes was awarded to CH RBR Kasirga at White Star CGC TTK BCAT. Those spectators and exhibitors at ringside cheered on the veterans with enthusiasm.

Following the Sweepstakes, the ASDCA Specialty Judge, Ms. Denise Dean (from AZ) judged our Junior Showmanship Entry. This year, there was one entry in the Open Class. Emily Collins showed her female, CH Birinci's Alex Danvers Kicks... Many of the exhibitors, handlers and spectators clapped in support of the entry.

Showtime: The Main Event

In went the boys. As an observer, everything appeared to go very smoothly. While there were some dogs that were a bit overwhelmed by examination, the judge worked with everyone to get through without incident. Winners Dog/Best of Winners was awarded to Birinci's Gonna Pump You Up, with Reserve Winners Dog being awarded to Stonecoat Ringside Gossip.

Then the girls, and there were a lot. There were 12 bitches entered. The judging appeared to go as smoothly as the dogs. Classes moved along without incident. The Winners Bitch was awarded to the American-Bred winner, Chevaliers du Roland's High Roller. Reserve Winners Bitch came from the Open class, Chevaliers du Roland's Dealer's Choice.

In the regular specialty there were also 5 veterans entered. These dogs once again went around the ring to the sound of applause. This is always a credit to any breed when the veteran entry is competitive with the youngsters.

Best of Breed was a nice large class with 15 specials entered (8-7). It was a real treat to have a class this size with a good variety in color, size and age. Best of Breed was awarded to GC CH Chevaliers Du Roland's Rikki-Tikki-Tavi. Best of Opposite was awarded to CH Chevaliers Du Roland's Just So Stories. Select Dog and Bitch were awarded to CH Skyview's Bridger and CH Birinci's Alex Danvers Kicks..., respectively. There were three Awards of Merit. They were given to GCH CH Chevaliers du Roland's Gunga Din, GCHB CH Chevaliers du Roland's Strudel, and Stonecoat Loyal Truth. Stonecoat Loyal Truth was also awarded the coveted Best Working Dog.

The Specialty ended with entries in Brace, Stud Dog, Brood Bitch and Extended Generation and Best Owner-Handled. The complete catalog with all of the winners is on pages 14-17. Ringside mentoring was offered. Ann Collins graciously handled the ringside mentoring.

Following the show, there was a judges seminar offered. Three judges attended, as did several members. Volunteers included Leslie Ayers, Natalie Thurman, Carol White, Emily Collins, Ann Collins, Erin Tallon-Carr, Jennifer Lile and EJ Collins.

Two shows down, two to go.

Saturday's ASDCA Supported Entry was held in conjunction with the Catonsville Kennel Club. The judge was from Australia, Mr. Christopher Moore. He also judged one of the Supported entries at the same show in 2018, though I had no idea because I left the show early in 2018 with all our dogs due to obligations. While the judges from Friday were both pleasant and enjoyable, Mr. Moore was clearly having fun with the assignment. He brought stuffed koalas from Down Under for all the class winners. He also made a point of coming up to me, as the chair, to compliment the entire entry. The Best of Breed winner was awarded to GCH CH Chevaliers du Roland's Gunga Din, who went on to a 4th place in the Working Group. Best of Opposite Sex was Chevaliers du Roland's High Roller.

THE NATIONAL SPECIALTY SHOW

Letter from the Show Chair - Katie Emanuel

Winners Dog/Best of Winners was awarded to Birinci's Gonna Pump You Up. Winners Bitch was awarded to one of the Veterans at the show, Canton's Spirit of Birinci. Select Dog was GCH CH O'Kurt the Legend of Kangal and the Select Bitch was awarded to Stonecoat Loyal Truth.

(A complete list of the winners can be found on pg 17-18).

Saturday night we all headed back to the host hotel for the banquet/auction. There, we were lucky enough to have a blast from the past. After the awards portion of the evening, Erin Tallon-Carr and Carmen Jenkins Thompson (former member) worked their magic to get those bids. For the number of attendees, we had a very successful auction/raffle. However, the coveted item of the night was a history quilt made by Erin Tallon-Carr. In an effort to maximize the fundraising, the Club decided to hold the item for next year. So, to all of you on the West Coast, the quilt is coming your way.

Sunday was the final Supported Entry in conjunction with the National Capitol Kennel Club. Mrs. Eva Berg from California showed us how to enjoy a final show, by also having fun with our breed. She was thrilled to have such a large entry. Sunday's Winners Dog/Best of Winners was Chevaliers du Roland's Wouldn't it be Nice. Winners Bitch/Best Puppy was awarded to Birinci's Vegetation Evaluator (EVE). Best of Breed was awarded to GC CH Chevaliers Du Roland's Rikki-Tikki-Tavi. Best of Opposite was awarded to CH Chevaliers Du Roland's Just So Stories. Select Dog (and Best Owner-Handled) was awarded to GCH CH Birinci's Ratatouille Piece de Resistance. While Select Bitch was awarded to CH Chevaliers du Roland's Cuddle Up. Showing that each judge makes their own decisions. (A complete list of the winners can be found on pg 19-20).

All in all, it was a spectacular weekend. Though we did get a flat tire on the way home. It was great meeting new people, seeing old members and seeing all the wonderful dogs. There was something for everyone at the show. I am thrilled to pass the torch to Carol and Diana and look forward to heading to the West Coast in 2026.

HEALTH COMMITTEE

Anatolian Shepherd Dog Breed Health Survey Announcement

The Anatolian Shepherd Dog Club of America, in partnership with the Orthopedic Foundation for Animals (OFA), conducted one previous health survey for Anatolian Shepherd Dogs from December 1, 2009 to September 5, 2011. The goal of this survey is to get current health data on the Anatolian Shepherd Dog since 2011.

The survey will confidentially gather data which will provide a current base of statistics for making decisions to address diseases and other health issues which are occurring in the Anatolian Shepherd Dog breed. The future health of our breed depends on early identification of health problems and then funding research in those specific areas. Your input is vital to ensuring that our health and research dollars are spent wisely.

Thank you for taking this survey!

Data Collection Information:

The submitted data for this survey goes directly to an OFA database which processes the information and compiles the statistics for review by any interested party. The data submitted for each dog is assigned a number and is treated confidentially – no names are used.

How to use this survey:

Please fill out this survey for each Anatolian Shepherd Dog you have owned since 2011 when the last survey was conducted.

Please include living and deceased dogs. (If deceased, please do not complete a survey for any dog that died prior to 2011).

Complete one survey for each dog.

At the end of the survey, click finish, then if reporting more than one dog, simply take the survey again.

This survey should take less than 5 minutes per dog.

HEALTH COMMITTEE

Anatolian Shepherd Dog Breed Health Survey Announcement

After over a year of coordinating with the Orthopedic Foundation for Animals, your ASDCA Health Committee is happy to announce that the Anatolian Shepherd Dog Breed Health Survey is open for survey submissions!

Our last breed health survey ended in 2011. In the last 15 years, many purebred Anatolian Shepherd Dogs have been whelped, raised, loved, and lost.

The goal of this breed health survey is to collect anonymous data on individual Anatolians' health history.

This data will help the Anatolian Shepherd Dog Clubs, breeders, and owners from around the world be aware of the health concerns our Anatolians are prone to. Information is power, and we want to empower all Anatolian owners and enthusiasts.

Highlights:

- One survey per dog.
- Your response is completely anonymous.
- All purebred Anatolian Shepherd Dogs are eligible.
- Responses are welcome from ALL countries.
- This survey is free to participate in, and the data will be free to researchers.

For more information, and to participate in this survey, visit:

SO YOU WANT TO BREED YOUR BITCH

April 2013 AKC Gazette Article - Marilyn Harned

There is nothing more adorable than an Anatolian Shepherd Dog puppy. Breeding a beautiful litter of Anatolian Shepherd pups is definitely rewarding. However, experienced breeders have learned over time that breeding can have unexpected challenges. When the owner of a bitch is interested in breeding her for the first time, he or she must plan ahead and educate themselves about the breed and all that is involved in breeding before making the final decision to produce a litter. Important issues that need to be addressed are:

- Does my bitch meet the standard of excellence as described in the Official Breed Standard?
- Why do I want to breed my bitch? Will I be improving the quality of the breed?
- Is my bitch's age, condition, quality and temperament ideal for breeding her at this time?
- Has my bitch had a thorough veterinary exam to be sure she is in excellent health?
- Is my bitch (and potential sire) OFA certified (hips, elbows, etc.)?
- Have I made an in-depth study of the conformation, temperament and pedigree of the potential mate?
- Do I know what inherited defects (allergies, hip and/or elbow dysplasia, etc.) my bitch might pass along to her offspring?
- What plans are in place for puppy placement? Examples: Webpage? Ads in reputable dog journals? Local newspaper?
- Do I have reservations for at least half of the litter? If not, am I willing to wait to breed my bitch until I have enough homes lined up? Remember, you can't predict the size of a litter;
- Do I have the financial resources, facilities and time to provide optimum care for whelping a litter? Am I able to manage substantial veterinarian expenses if medical intervention is needed to whelp the litter?
- Am I able to answer, with authority, potential buyers' questions about the breed?
- When I screen potential buyers, so I have a prepared list of questions to determine: the potential buyers' motives in purchasing a puppy (livestock guardian, family companion, showing, etc.); if the buyer plans to breed in the future; if the potential buyer has property with proper housing and fencing to contain a large breed dog; if the buyer understands the demands of socializing, training and managing a livestock guardian breed; if there are children in the home; and if there are other animals on the property. Having a puppy application for potential buyers to fill out is an invaluable tool to assist the screening process.
- Am I committed to keeping the puppies as long as necessary until good homes are found?
- Am I willing to say "No" to an unsuitable home?
- Will my litter be registered with AKC? Remember, limited registrations are available.
- Do I have a contract for the sale of the pups?
- Am I willing to be available for my puppy people for the life of the dog, and am I willing to take back a pup should it become necessary?

Breeding dogs is a complicated and costly affair. It involves a lot of time, motivation, resources and ethics. The Anatolian Shepherd Dog Club of America posts on its website (<http://www.asdca.club>) a list of Code of Ethics breeders, many with years of breeding experience. First-time breeders can call on these COE breeders as mentors, knowing that successful, ethical breeders will plan ahead and do all in their power to produce quality, healthy puppies.

WORKING DOG COMMITTEE

Member Interview - Marlena Balvin

1. Tell us a little about yourself. Where do you live? What are your hobbies?

You would think a question like this would be so simple, but it's not! We have two properties that we split our time between. We have a business (a very busy dog boarding facility) near Show Low, Arizona where I spend a lot of time and consider my "residence." We moved our sheep operation from that property to an 11 acre homestead in a very small community called Escudilla Bonita, New Mexico which is just two miles over the border from Arizona. For the last several years all of my time has been dedicated to my business and making progress on our off-grid homestead where we raise chickens, turkeys and rabbits in addition to the dairy sheep and our dogs, which I consider my hobbies. I've recently started to show my Anatolians and am getting more involved with my local AKC club. I look forward to the next few years hopefully to have more free time to show my dogs and travel.

2. Why and when did you get your first Anatolian?

We got our first two Anatolians in August of 2020 after we purchased a 40 acre property where we intended to raise alpacas. I had worked on a chicken farm in California in 2012 where I met my first two Anatolians and was amazed by the breed and what they did as working dogs on a farm. I always knew that they would be the breed that I would get when I eventually purchased property and started my own homestead. We ended up not raising alpacas, choosing goats and now dairy and meat sheep as our focus.

3. How many working Anatolian's do you currently have and what are their ages?

As of May 2025, we have three Anatolians. Boomer will be five years old in June, Annie just turned four, and we have Dustie who will be celebrating her first birthday in June.

4. What kind of animals do your dog's guard and how many?

We have 24 sheep, three turkeys, about 40 chickens, 4 cats and 9 rabbits.

5. What predatory problems do you have?

Our main concerns are wolves, coyotes, mountain lions, bobcats, javelina, bears, raccoons, skunks, mink, fishers, hawks, owls, snakes, humans and stray dogs.

6. What qualities of the Anatolian do you appreciate most?

Their intuition and judge of character. We value our dogs' abilities to let us know when something is off, especially when interacting with visitors and workers on our property.

7. What do you think every working Anatolian should have or be taught?

This is a very broad question, but I'll answer it as best as I can based on our personal experience and what works for us. We provide our Anatolians with a lot of space and freedom to do what they feel is best. They pick their own observation points/lookouts and dig their dens wherever they want. Things that may not make sense to me, but it makes sense to them. I believe that with the trust that we have in them in addition to their maturity as they get older, they make better and better decisions. We talk to our Anatolians like they are people - hopefully they understand through our tone that we trust them, but will also understand our tone when they are being reprimanded for unacceptable or unwanted behaviors. We have a routine every day where the dogs greet us in the morning, and then feed the livestock with us. They rest throughout the day, and will visit with us occasionally. At night they feed the livestock with us again and are sent off to work the nightshift.

Member Interview - Marlena Balvin

8. What kind of fencing, gates, or collars work best for you?

Just like a lot of Anatolian owners, we have spent a lot of time figuring out what fencing and techniques work for us. Ultimately, five foot no-climb field fencing on the perimeter is what keeps our dogs home and safe. We use 7-rail goat/sheep panels for our livestock which also works very well with the dogs. We also use two entry gates spaced far apart when we are leaving or arriving on the property to ensure dogs don't have the ability to escape when gates are open. I have a much longer list of things we have tried that haven't worked!

9. Do you have any Vet/ Health maintenance recommendations?

See a vet that is familiar with working dogs and livestock guardians. My program has an emphasis on nutrition for all of my animals, including my dogs. Be prepared for opinions that are outside the norm of food options for dogs other than commercially prepared kibble or canned food.

10. What does your feeding and/or maintenance program include all year? (example: More in winter/less in summer, fly stuff etc.)

Our Anatolians are supplemented all year long with what is available from our own food sources, and sources from local hunters. When our neighbor's gardens provide plentiful greens, squash and sweet potatoes, those are added to our dogs food. Our dogs eat meat sources raised by us which includes mostly rabbit, chicken and eggs in addition to their kibble. The young growing dogs, pregnant and lactating dogs are given additional vitamins and minerals. Our Anatolians are not very food motivated and seem to regulate their own intake based on their caloric expenditure. We do use commercial fly spray in the summer to prevent fly strike.

Member Interview - Marlena Balvin

11. What have been your biggest challenges and/or greatest rewards in using Anatolian's as guardians?

As a dog boarding facility owner, having Anatolians on my property was a challenge and a rewarding experience at the same time. It gave me an opportunity to educate the public and my customers about Anatolians and livestock guardians in general. The biggest challenge was having to keep my younger Anatolians from wandering. Learning to be patient has been one of my greatest challenges, as well as accepting that I am absolutely not in control of everything that goes on around me.

12. What advice would you give a newbie looking for a guardian dog?

My advice is to visit farms with working dogs and talk to as many livestock guardian dogs owners as you can. Many of us love an opportunity to talk about our dogs. Then, get the fencing in place. Do not even consider getting a dog without good fencing already installed. Find a breeder who "checks off all the boxes" and will be willing to mentor you through your first few years of owning a livestock guardian. Also, I suggest that new guardian dog owners are realistic with their expectations.

13. What have you learned from the breed?

That every dog is built and created specifically for a purpose.

Ranchers grapple with growing wolf numbers, losses

With California wolf populations expanding and attacks on livestock on the rise, the state announced this month a new phase of managing the protected species, saying it will consider allowing more aggressive forms of nonlethal hazing to deter the predators.

But frustrated ranchers say provisions under Phase 2 of the state plan do little to address problem wolves and that they remain powerless to protect their livestock and livelihoods, even as the canines become more emboldened and increasingly venture near homes, putting people's lives at risk.

Concerns about upticks in livestock depredations and potential wolf-human interactions prompted Modoc County in March and Sierra County earlier this month to declare local emergencies. Other Northern California counties with increased wolf activity also have considered similar measures, with Lassen County calling for state intervention.

Modoc County Supervisor Ned Coe, who works as a California Farm Bureau field representative, said the emergency declarations came as county officials and residents realized "we had more of a potential problem with public safety than with loss of livestock." He cited reports of wolf tracks where children play, resident wolf sightings and calves killed by wolves near people's homes.

"Part of the problem with them being in such close proximity to ranch homes is the wolf in the western states, where they're protected, has developed zero fear of humans," said Coe, himself a rancher.

Phase 2 of the wolf plan requires confirmation of at least four breeding pairs of wolves for two consecutive years. There are now seven known wolf packs and an estimated 70 wolves roaming the state.

The California Department of Fish and Wildlife said it plans to "evaluate legal pathways" under the state and federal Endangered Species Acts "to potentially issue permits" allowing use of more aggressive nonlethal means of harassment, including shooting at wolves with rubber bullets or bean bags and chasing them away on motorized vehicles such as ATVs.

Paul Roen, Sierra County supervisor and rancher, described Phase 2 as "just a feel-good move" by the department, as Phase 2 still does not allow lethal options to remove problem wolves. He said it's also unclear "what kind of hoops" ranchers will have to jump through to get a permit.

CDFW spokeswoman Katie Talbot said the department does not yet have a timeline for when it will begin issuing permits, "but we are looking at this now and evaluating next steps."

The department said it plans to release an online tool to provide more timely information about the location of GPS-collared wolves. Talbot said the tool is still in development but that it will allow ranchers to more quickly and easily monitor the movement of collared wolves.

For now, the gray wolf's status has not changed: It remains endangered under state and federal law and is fully protected, though CDFW said it will conduct a status review to determine if the wolf should remain on the endangered species list.

Because of the wolf's protected status, ranchers generally agree that their hands are tied, as they are prohibited from doing anything that could kill, harm or harass the animal without facing criminal or civil penalties. Though the law allows for the killing of a protected species in self-defense, there must be imminent threat to human life, and ranchers say there needs to be more legal clarity on what that means.

With spring calving and cattle starting to return to valley pastures, there's concern that wolves will follow their food source to where people live.

"They're right within the communities. They're right outside town. They've been right in the yards of a couple of ranchers' houses," Roen said. "They're not going anywhere because they're now getting plenty of prime rib."

His county's emergency declaration urged the state to initiate regulatory changes to give California sheriffs the authority to remove specific wolves that pose a public safety threat—just as is allowed for black bears and mountain lions.

Meanwhile, ranchers face mounting losses as wolf numbers grow. The state's $3 million compensation program to reimburse ranchers for livestock kills, indirect production losses and nonlethal deterrence ran out of money less than a year after it was fully implemented. Though the state added another $600,000 last October, the program now covers only direct kills.

CDFW's Talbot said the department has prioritized the $600,000 for depredation only "to ensure the funds can extend as long as possible."

That's a problem, Siskiyou County rancher Dan Chase said, as he has had no confirmed kills, but the management changes he's made to coexist with wolves come at a significant cost. For example, he weans calves early to avoid taking them to grazing allotments in wolf territory. That means having to find other feed. In his feed yard, he installed electric fencing with brightly colored flags, known as fladry, but they get blown over and require constant upkeep. What's more, wolves get used to them and are not deterred, he said.

But his biggest "nemesis," he said, is the wolves' impact on cattle reproduction, with cows unable to breed or aborting due to stress.

"When you look at the revenue that's gone because of this stress factor that our cows are under, even though we do all these things as far as management, it's catastrophic," he said.

A recent study by the University of California, Davis, confirmed what ranchers have said all along—that their most significant cost is not from direct livestock kills but from stress-related impacts due to wolf presence, with cattle losing weight and failing to conceive.

"This conflict is real and escalating. People are not crying wolf," said Ken Tate, UC Cooperative Extension specialist who co-authored the study with Tina Saitone, a specialist in livestock and rangeland economics.

The study estimated indirect costs in 2023 at $69,627 to $162,658 per wolf, or more than $1.4 million to $3.4 million. That year, there were 21 wolves reported across three packs. Tate said it was no surprise that the initial $3 million for rancher compensation was spent so quickly. Most of that money went to nonlethal measures that ranchers implemented to deter wolves, CDFW reported.

To adequately compensate producers, Tate said the department and the Legislature "need to think about orders of magnitude greater," with program costs running $30 million to $90 million.

The research also shows that "ranchers are funding the conservation and survival" of the state's wolves, Tate said. Due to the state's small elk population, most of the wolf scat collected in the study found the predators' diet consists largely of cattle. It's no wonder that every wolf pack is in areas with livestock grazing, he said, because the carnivores are dependent on cattle.

Since his first encounter with wolves in February 2024, Modoc County rancher Ray Anklin said he has spent more than $100,000 on deterrence, including using electric fencing, fladry, a noisemaker and a drone for monitoring and hazing. He estimated spending more than 1,800 hours repairing fences after his cattle ran over them as they were being chased by wolves. He applied for compensation, but the state had stopped paying for deterrence. Though he also lost 10 head of cattle last year, only one was considered a confirmed wolf kill, as there was not enough carcass in the others for an investigation.

With wolves entering new territory, Anklin said he expects there will be more wolf-human confrontations. He noted his 12-year-old daughter and a member of his crew have had recent wolf encounters.

So long as wolves are an endangered species, Amaroq Weiss, senior wolf advocate at the Center for Biological Diversity, said she thinks “they deserve protections until we can get them to more sustainable levels.” She expressed disappointment that the state allocated only $600,000 last year for rancher compensation and said her organization would like to work with farm groups to lobby for more funding.

“We acknowledge there are many ranches that are taking actions and are doing their best,” she said. “We completely support the Legislature allocating more funding so that those folks can be supported, and hopefully more folks will come on board.”

She said she’s also in favor of making available to ranchers workshops by groups such as Working Circle, a nonprofit that works with ranchers in California, Colorado, Oregon and Washington to reduce wolf-livestock conflicts.

Lassen County rancher Wyatt Hanson said he has been “very open to ideas” on how to lessen wolf impacts. He has had wolf kills on his home ranch where his family lives and on leased land in Sierra County. He uses scare boxes and fladry as deterrence.

Hanson said he would like the state to create a bigger budget to pay for ranchers’ indirect losses and for the money to be better managed so that it could be distributed more equitably.

He also acknowledged some division early on within the ranching community about taking payment for wolf impacts, as “that’s just admitting that it’s OK.” Some ranchers contend that accepting compensation allows conservation groups to downplay their concerns.

Roan, the Sierra County supervisor and rancher, said if the state does not address “the true financial impact” of wolves on livestock producers by fully funding the compensation program, the issue may end up in court.

“We’re kind of at a crossroads,” he said. “We’ve got to see which way they want to go.”

Secretary's Report – 2025

Serving as Recording Secretary for the Anatolian Shepherd Dog Club of America continues to provide a unique window into the many ways people connect with our breed and our club. Throughout the year, the Secretary's office maintains membership records, assists with club correspondence, and supports communication between members, the Board, and committees.

One of the ongoing responsibilities of the position is responding to inquiries from the public. These messages come from a wide range of people—prospective Anatolian owners, individuals seeking breeder information, and occasionally those needing assistance with dogs in need of new homes.

This year we saw a continued number of rescue-related inquiries. In order to respond more efficiently and consistently, a standardized reply was developed so that individuals contacting the club receive clear guidance while the club works toward reestablishing an affiliated rescue organization.

Membership records were maintained throughout the year, and current membership numbers were compiled and provided to the Board as needed.

As always, the dedication of our members and volunteers continues to be the strength of this club. It is a pleasure to work with a community so committed to the preservation and well-being of the Anatolian Shepherd Dog.

Respectfully submitted,
Rachel Amov
Recording Secretary

ANATOLIAN SHEPHERD DOG CLUB OF AMERICA

AKC PARENT CLUB
ESTABLISHED 1970

Dear Friends,

We are excited to announce that the Anatolian Shepherd Dog Club of America, Inc. (ASDCA) will hold its annual National Specialty in October, in Santa Rosa, CA.

The National Specialty is our club's major fund-raising function of the year. Funds raised at the National Specialty show enable the ASDCA to continue with on-going educational programs, learning clinics, and judge's seminars. Monies provided in support of the ASDCA also help to support our breed through health programs and research about this magnificent and courageous working breed. Our income and support for the ASDCA will come from a raffle and live auction held at our National Specialty.

Donations from individuals and businesses are critical in making our auction and raffle a big success. All donations regardless of size will help us in making this a success. While we're a 501(c)(4) organization and cannot offer tax deduction benefits, we will prominently feature your company name and logo in our event materials, social media promotions, and during the auction itself, providing valuable exposure to our dedicated community of dog enthusiasts.

Donations may include:

 Gift Certificates  Dog
Food  Treats  General
Care Products **
Collectibles, Art  Wine or Gift Baskets

 Crates  Toys  Grooming Supplies **
Collars/Leashes  Hand Crafted Items **
Just about anything you desire to donate

We invite you to send cards, flyers, and catalogs with your donations for display at the Specialty. Business cards will be attached to each donation. We at the ASDCA will do our best to promote your business and products. All donations will be acknowledged at our multiple-day show, on our social media, and in our club newsletter, "The Anatolian Times."

Our heartfelt thanks for your time and consideration; we truly appreciate your continued support. Please feel free to reach out to me regarding donations and or questions. My phone number and email address are listed below. Shipping address available on request.

Thank you for considering our request.

Warm regards,

Rachel Amor
